

Taking Off: Civil Aviation, Forward Progress and Japans Third Arrow Reforms

In a report released today by the Center for a New American Security, Dr. Patrick Cronin urges the government of Japans Prime Minister Shinzo Abe to target the nations civil aviation industry for reform as a critical component of its efforts to improve the private investment climate in the nation. Dr. Cronin, the Senior Director of the Asia-Pacific Security program at CNAS, notes that Abenomics - the Prime Ministers bold plan to revitalize and reinvigorate the Japanese economy - includes Three Arrows, the third of which is to promote private investment-led growth by opening Japanese markets and encouraging a more flexible and competitive regulatory framework...
